'Adventures with Agitators' - In Conversation with Lawyer & Author Paul Richards about Indigenous Struggles for Justice

Long before Kevin Rudd, Chief Magistrate Fingleton made an Apology in 2000 to Indigenous people from the bench. "It was just that they had not always been granted the justice that they deserved."

Entry to this Reconciliation Queensland 'Speaker Series' General Meeting is free - All are most welcome

Feel free to bring a plate of food or refreshments to our afternoon tea. This is an informal affair, no motions are on the agenda for the gathering.

Donations are always gratefully received to help our volunteer organisation deliver these events: we aim to promote reconciliation while giving members an opportunity to engage with RQI management, important community figures and leading experts.

She documented her controversial trial, imprisonment, and eventual vindication by the High Court of Australia, which quashed her conviction as a miscarriage of justice, in her 2010 book, Nothing To Do with Justice.

Come along to this RQI Speaker Series event to hear from Di Fingleton herself about her passion to establish justice for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples.

RSVP: please email events@rqi.org.au or call Rosalie on 0448 468 618
