SOME THOUGHTS ABOUT RECONCILIATION

What is it?

Reconciliation means different things to different people. It could mean:

- changing relationships for the better
- forging a new relationship between the wider community and Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples
- working together to build a better future.

How do we achieve it?

By:

- acknowledging our history and its legacies — both positive and negative
- recognising the inherent rights, laws, customs, religions and traditions of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and their entitlement to enjoy and express them
- acknowledging that Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples are the first peoples of Australia, and have unique cultural relationships with the land, sea and waterways
- respecting each other's culture
- reinforcing that there is no place for racism or discrimination in Queensland
- displaying positive attitudes, a spirit of goodwill, mutual respect
- building relationships so that we can work together to create a better future.
